

Lighting cut backs on the M1

Making yourself seen through the darkness has never been so important as the highway Agency (HA) have begun to switch off and remove lights from extensive pieces of the M1 in an attempt to reduce carbon emissions and conserve budgets.

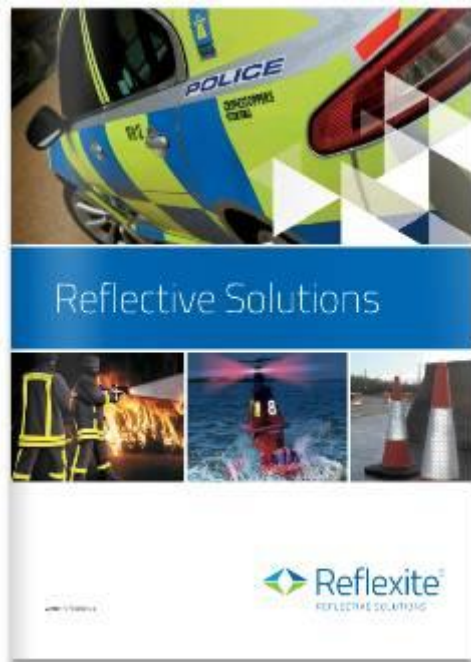

The first step in implementation of the policy happened on the 17th of August; Lights were switched off between junction 10 and 13 which connects Luton with Milton Keynes. The project is due to be completed by autumn 2012 and will save an estimated 810 tonnes of carbon per year.

Not all roads will be affected; motorway junctions, approach roads and sections of the M1 either side of junction 11 will remain lit but for the rest of the M1 there will be a permanent blackout.

So be prepared and be safe, ensure that your vehicle remains visible after the lights have gone with reflective tape from Reflexite.
